NASHVILLE'S CONSTRUCTION READINESS PARTNERSHIP

ADMINISTERED BY: NCAC NASHVILLE CAREER ADVANCEMENT CENTER

The Nashville Construction Readiness Partnership (NCRP) is a collaborative initiative of Mayor Megan Barry to assist citizens of Nashville in jump-starting their construction industry career.

The 6-week construction-training program is for a Davidson County resident that has no open or pending charges against them and no previous record of sexual offenses, is in good physical condition and has, or will be able to obtain, a valid Drivers License and a dependable mode of transportation. Experienced instructors will help you learn various construction skills including: basic safety, introduction to power tools, introduction to blueprints and much more.

WHY PARTICIPATE: NCRP classes model a real job site. This provides you with valuable hands-on experience. Focusing on accountability, skills mastery and mathematics, you'll leave the program ready for entry-level work on any construction site with a certificate of the skills that you have earned.

HOW TO APPLY: Davidson County residents 18 years of age or older that are interested in enrolling in the NCRP construction training should visit any Goodwill Career Solutions. The main office is located at 937 Herman Street, Nashville, TN 37208, Phone: 615-742-4151.

• TRAINING PROVIDED • JOB SATISFACTION • ADVANCEMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Nashville Career Advancement Center (NCAC) is a Metro Agency operating in partnership with the American Job Center. NCAC is currently working with employers, community agencies, training providers, and Nashville's job seekers to connect through the NCRP. NCAC has partnered with Goodwill for construction training during the NCRP initiative.
