Shelby Park

The Nashville Street Railway had a casino built in the wooded area now known as Shelby Park during the early 1890s as a method of enticing people to use their streetcars. Between 1906 and 1909 the casino and over 150 acres of land were acquired by the City and set aside as parkland. The lake that exists in the present-day park was dug around that time, and in the 1920s movies were shown on the hillside behind what is now the Shelby West Rec Center. Today, Shelby Park remains a premier urban park, with a nature center, two public golf courses, and eight miles of greenway trails.
