Making cars irrelevant

Finland’s capital is planning to make its transit and mobility system so convenient and user-friendly that private cars might not be necessary.

When traffic gets bad enough...

transit starts looking a lot more attractive, even in some of our most car-centric cities.

“Environmental gentrification”

Increasing green space often leads to rising property values - and, sometimes, to displacement of the residents the space was originally meant to benefit.
