STAFF REPORTS

Sean Alexander reported that he and Tim visited Bells Bend, where a team of archaeologists from UT Knoxville and the University of Arizona were wrapping up their third summer excavation field school. There are several known archaeological sites in the area, dating back as far as 13,000 years old. The current project is a site believed to be around 5,000 years old, and was discovered when artifacts were exposed after the 2010 flood eroded the riverbank along Bells Bend.

The team will analyze the artifacts and data they collected during the fall semester and produce a report by spring of 2013. They hope to continue the excavation next year.
