

Metropolitan Police Department

Nashville-Davidson County, Tennessee

Training Academy

Basic Police Curriculum

Ethics, Law, Community & Fitness

Introduction

The Metropolitan Police Department Training Division is a highly structured organization whose operation is guided by law, policy, procedure, rules and regulations, and the Police Officer Code of Ethics.

Consistent with the Department's Mission, the primary role of the Training Division is the operation of a Police Training Academy where, through the training of officers in law, ethics, fitness, and community service, the highest level of professional law enforcement performance is achieved. A basic police-training program is the foundation upon which the career of all officers begins.

The basic police-training program is guided by minimum requirements established by the Peace Officer Standards and Training Commission, the governing agency of law enforcement training on behalf of the State of Tennessee. The Metropolitan Police Department's commitment to the citizens of Nashville demands that only the highest caliber individual serve as a Police Officer. Under the guidance of a committed chain of command, the goal of building a professional team of officers is entrusted to the staff of the Police Training Academy.

The staff of the Academy provides the basic police training program to those candidates who have completed the rigorous application process. The basic training program is designed to challenge the trainee-both mentally and physically. The curriculum is developed with the goal of providing Nashville with the most qualified officers.

At the completion of the Academy, the training continues with a Field Training Program under the supervision of veteran officers who have volunteered to serve as Field Training Officers. At the completion of the training program, officers are produced who, through community service and technology, will provide Nashville with the best-qualified person to serve the city as police officers. The details herein describe the basic police-training program for latest session of the Metropolitan Police Training Academy.

Law enforcement effectiveness depends upon community respect and confidence. Law enforcement effectiveness requires public trust and confidence. Diverse communities must have faith in the fairness and impartiality of their police. Adherence to the Law Enforcement Code of Ethics is essential to this role.

Police officers conduct their duties pursuant to a grant of limited authority from the community. Therefore, officers must understand the laws defining the scope of their enforcement powers. Police officers may only act in accordance with the powers granted to them and in accordance with policy and law.

Police officers must also maintain a level of personal and professional fitness. This includes not only the health and wellness to fulfill their assigned duties, but also encompasses professional fitness. Professional fitness includes maintaining proficiency with all assigned equipment, understanding and an ability to apply the law in a fair and just manner, working with an understanding of the diverse community in which they serve and strive everyday to improve their knowledge, skills and abilities to effectively and safely serve.

A police officer's ability to perform his or her duties is dependent upon the respect and confidence communities have for the officer and law enforcement officers in general. Police officers must conduct themselves in a manner consistent with the integrity and trustworthiness expected of them by the public. Police officers, as stewards of the community they serve, must always apply the principles of community service. Essential to safe and effective community service is learning the skills that enable officers to apply these principles and develop and maintain positive relationships; while treating all members of the public courteously and with respect. Police officers are the most visible form of local government. Therefore, police officers must make a positive impression when interacting with the public and each other. For a community to have faith in its police officers, officers must avoid conduct that does or could cast doubt upon the impartiality of the individual officer or the Department.

This thorough, and in depth, training is conducted through progressive instruction and learning, with safety being the upmost daily objective. The nomenclature as the initial block of instruction leading into basic sight picture, trigger pull, ensuring finger remains on the pistol frame until just prior to discharging firearm. Conducting training where the trainee verbally challenges the target for compliance helps with the repetition of the verbal command level of the Use of Force continuum, as well as additional practice of verbal de-escalation tactics learned during Verbal Defense & Influence. A portion of the training is conducted in low light times of the day (evening). Aspects include, but are not limited to: safe weapon handling, marksmanship, tactics, cover shooting, reloading procedures, malfunction procedures, shooting from vehicle, long range shooting, position shooting, shooting multiple targets, shooting on the move, shooting moving targets, and partner shooting

The trainee will be instructed to demonstrate a particular exercise to the instructors' approval. After the trainee has completed all the exercises, they will also be subjected to a written test that consists of 50 questions on defensive tactics.

The Basic Recruits will learn the following about the Field Interview Stance: 1) the stance gives the Officer a Command Presence, 2) the stance assists Officers in quickly recognizing and reacting to sudden threats, 3) the proper stance, 3) the three Zones of Contact (Personal Contact, Field Interview, & Field Contact), 4) relative positioning is and how to utilize it during field interviews and contact with the public, 5) angles of approach and directions to approach individuals, 6) how to obtain documents such as identifications from persons while not compromising officer safety, 7) methods of interacting with the public in a non-threatening manner, while maintaining officer safety principals, and 8) how communication plays an important role deescalating a situation and assessing an individual's threat level.

Force & De-escalation Practical 8 Hours

The objective of this exercise is to evaluate the skills the officer has in all uses of force. The drill will test every skill the student has learned. The goal of this reality based training exercise is to ensure the trainee knows when to escalate and de-escalate the level of force utilized in different scenarios (with the emphasis of always trying to de-escalate and bring resolution utilizing the least level of force necessary). The officer trainee will also complete a use of force report on one of the drills and will be critiqued on their performance.

In Custody Death Syndrome 2 Hours

The objective is to inform the student of the meaning of restraint asphyxia and toxic delirium. The class will teach them the proper way to restrain suspects during arrest and transporting them.

Introduction to Defensive Tactics 4 Hours

This block of instruction will introduce the trainees to defensive tactics. It includes the Field Interview Stance, Use of Force Continuum and as well as intro to all types of defensive tactics.

Pepper Spray 4 Hours

The goal of this course is for the student to gain the knowledge and skills to correctly deploy aerosol chemical weapons in the field. The student will learn where and when to use the chemical weapon in the force continuum. Tactics and procedures of deploying and knowing the proper treatment and aftercare to provide the subject will also be instructed.

Physical Fitness Training

69.5 Hours

The objective of the Physical Fitness Program is to emphasize the importance of proper physical fitness and good diet. This program is also designed to prepare the trainee for physical aspects of being a successful police officer. During these periods of training, the trainee will be evaluated weekly to determine if they are making satisfactory progress in the areas of physical endurance, flexibility, and body strength. Weight training is also included in the physical training program to increase overall body strength and conditioning.

MNPD Defensive Tactics; Total Hours: 58 Hours

Several specific aspects of self-defense and physical hands on actions which are required of trainees to benefit them during their course of action throughout an on-duty day to day activity. Emergency Vehicle Operations Course (EVOC)

Total: 48.5 Hours (POST 48 Hours)

EVOC

42.5 Hours

EVOC consists of the sub-segments below.

Defensive Driving

This block of instruction is broken down into two parts. The first is classroom instruction and the second is driving on a track. Both non-emergency and emergency driving issues are covered to provide the student with the proper attitude, knowledge, and skills to enable him/her to safely and legally operate a police vehicle under all operating conditions.

Precision Driving & Maneuver Techniques (Covered Under Defensive Driving)

This block of instruction is designed to familiarize the trainee with the departmental vehicle. The trainee will learn the basic concepts involved in performance driving, skid control, and the various forces applicable to high-speed emergency and pursuit driving. This course involves classroom presentation and practical driving scenarios involving the operation of a departmental emergency vehicle.

Stinger Spike Strips

During this block of instruction trainees will learn how, when and where to use the spike strips. They will also practice deploying and retracting the spike strip safely. They will participate in a live deployment on a vehicle and observe the effects of the spike strip on vehicle tires.

Vehicle Pursuits: Policy & Safety

This block of instruction is to provide the trainees with an overview of the departmental policy and procedure regarding police pursuits. An emphasis is placed on the guidelines for initiating a pursuit, the monitoring of pursuit conditions, the safety of the public, the safety of the officer, the guidelines for pursuit termination, and the proper documentation of a police pursuit. Also covered are methods of safely operating a police vehicle under pursuit conditions. The trainee is required to demonstrate a proficiency in applying the principles of the departmental policy and safe driving during the entire emergency vehicle operation block of training.

Reality Based Training: Traffic Stops

Trainees utilize their driving techniques during traffic stops (which includes felony traffic stops). This is a practical exercise where the trainees operate vehicles during situational training, which includes safe driving techniques in operating a vehicle while emergency equipment is activated. It also includes the utilization of other devices inside the vehicle during traffic stop initiation.

National Safety Council Defensive Driving Course (DDC6)

6 Hours
