Alyssa Fernandez

Oasis Center

Director of Permanent Housing

Brief Biography

As a California transplant, much of my formative years were spent in the North Nashville area. It is here where my family was fortunate to be a recipient of the support of various social services to prevent my family from entering homelessness after my mother experienced a sudden disability. Despite our hardships, and with the help of our community, I was able to eventually become the first in my family to graduate from college. I have an Associate's Degree in Psychology from Volunteer State Community College, a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology and Sociology from Austin Peay State University and a Masters of Science in Social Work from University of Tennessee – Knoxville. For the past 13 years, I have dedicated my service to the public, with a focus on youth and young adults. My past work experience includes being a licensed therapist, case manager, director of a foster care program and now as Director of Permanent Housing at the Oasis Center. Additionally, I received a certificate in Intrapreneurship from eCornell University. With this certificate, I expanded my knowledge on transforming organizational culture through strategic thinking, change management, team development and other systematic approaches. I believe I use a collection of my personal and professional experiences to drive change and growth in every space I enter.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

The Homelessness Planning Council's mission aligns with my values and strengths, and I would love to contribute even more to this passionate and dedicated community. I believe my relatively short experience within homelessness specifically (2.5 years) can be seen as an asset to bring a renewed and diverse perspective to the Council and its committees. Even during this short time, I hope to have contributed in bringing new energy, and a sense of unity and hope, that the HPC will need to reach its goals and beyond.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year?

Yes

Can you commit to joining at least one Continuum of Care Committee?

Yes

Tell us about your experience working to address homelessness and/or support people experiencing homelessness.

As Director of Permanent Housing, I am primarily working to address homelessness through leadership of the Oasis Center's Rapid Re-Housing program for young adults and families aged 18 to 24. This program is the second largest recipient of COC funding behind MDHA and managing a successful million dollar budget program requires me to effectively utilize my skills in leadership, community partnerships, diplomacy, and grant management. At the same time, I prioritize ensuring that our staff and those that we serve are seen, heard, valued and appropriately supported in order to meet our mutual goals of getting Nashvillians housed and staying housed for the long term.

Since 2023, I have been an active participant of the COC General Membership as well as the Diversity and Equity Committee. My contributions led me to become Chair of the COC Diversity and Equity Committee in September 2024. Recently, I have also taken on leading COC's newest Initiatives Efficiency Ad Hoc Task Force, dedicated to fulfilling specific tasks that move the Homelessness Planning Council's Strategic Plan goals forward.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

I truly believe we can essentially end homelessness in Nashville, and this can largely be done with innovative and effective systems and individuals working in alignment. This mentality will be what I bring to the Council - not only in concept but in action, setting forth tangible solutions wherever I can. I'm always ready to answer the call to action toward ending homelessness in our community!

Do you have lived experience of homelessness (past or present)?

No

Amanda Smith

Meharry Medical College, Addiction Clinic

Clinic Supervisor

Brief Biography

With a deep-rooted passion for promoting health equity and social justice, Amanda is a dedicated Master's level social worker specializing in substance use treatment and harm reduction strategies. With three years of experience in the field, she works to ensure quality care and support for individuals navigating substance use challenges. Currently serving as the Clinic Supervisor at Meharry Addiction Clinic, Amanda oversees the daily operations of the clinic, assisting in implementing evidence-based practices and innovative harm reduction approaches. She collaborates closely with a multidisciplinary team to develop a harm reduction approach that meets each patient's unique needs, empowering them with life-saving tools and providing options without judgment. Amanda earned her Master of Social Work (MSW) degree from Tennessee State University in 2021. She has been with Meharry since 2021, progressing from a graduate-level intern to her current role as Clinical Supervisor.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

I am seeking to serve on the Council to End Homelessness because I believe that housing is a fundamental human right, and I am committed to being part of a solution that ensures no one in our community is left without a safe place to call home. Homelessness is not a singular issue—it intersects with mental health, addiction, economic inequality, systemic racism, and gaps in our social safety net. Ending it requires collaboration, compassion, and action rooted in lived experience and evidence-based practices.

I bring to this council not only a strong desire to advocate for sustainable change but also a willingness to listen deeply to those who are directly affected. Whether through policy, outreach, or partnership-building, I want to contribute to strategies that are inclusive, practical, and long-term. My goal is to help build systems that prevent homelessness before it starts and provide pathways out of it that honor people's dignity and worth.

Being part of this council is an opportunity to serve with others who share a vision for a more just and equitable community. I'm ready to roll up my sleeves, engage with stakeholders, and help ensure that our collective efforts lead to meaningful and measurable progress.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

Can you commit to joining at least one Continuum of Care Committee? Yes

Tell us about your experience working to address homelessness and/or support people experiencing homelessness.

In my role at a grant-funded outpatient clinic providing free substance use treatment, I have had the privilege of working with individuals experiencing homelessness who are often navigating some of the most difficult circumstances of their lives. Our clinic operates on the principle that access to care should never be dependent on income or housing status, and this has allowed us to serve clients who might otherwise be excluded from the traditional healthcare system.

Through this work, I've seen how substance use and homelessness are deeply interconnected—not just clinically, but socially and structurally. Many of our clients are facing barriers such as lack of ID, transportation, trauma, stigma, and long waitlists for housing. In response, our team has taken a holistic approach that integrates substance use treatment with wraparound support, community partnerships, and a strong emphasis on trauma-informed care.

Working in a setting sustained by grant funding has also deepened my understanding of the importance of sustainable public investment, data-driven outcomes, and equitable resource allocation. I've contributed to outreach, care coordination, and service delivery that help bridge gaps between emergency services, housing providers, and recovery supports.

Being part of the Council to End Homelessness would allow me to bring these insights to a broader systems-level conversation—helping to shape policies that reflect both the lived experiences of those we serve and the frontline realities of service delivery. I’m committed to advocating for strategies that are inclusive, compassionate, and rooted in the understanding that recovery and housing stability must go hand-in-hand.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

As a social worker, I bring both a compassionate lens and a systems-oriented approach to addressing homelessness. I understand that housing instability is rarely the result of a single issue—it is often the product of systemic inequities, generational poverty, untreated trauma, and limited access to behavioral health services. My work focuses not only on providing immediate support to individuals but also on advocating for long-term solutions that promote housing stability, dignity, and equity.

In our community, I contribute by doing the following:

- Build trusting relationships with individuals experiencing homelessness, meeting them where they are, and connecting them to services that are accessible, trauma-informed, and person-centered.
- Collaborate across systems—healthcare, housing, criminal justice, and behavioral health—to ensure that people don’t fall through the cracks.
- Advocate for policies and funding that expand access to affordable housing, supportive services, and harm-reduction programs.
- Use data and lived experience to inform service improvements, reduce barriers, and drive change at both the individual and systemic levels.
- Elevate the voices of marginalized populations, especially those often overlooked in policy decisions, to ensure our community’s response to homelessness is inclusive and just.

I see every interaction as an opportunity to help someone move closer to safety, stability, and wellness—and every system as something we have the power to improve. I’m committed to being a voice, an advocate, and a collaborator in our shared work to end homelessness.

Catherine Knowles

Metro Nashville Public Schools HERO Program

Director of Special Population Services and McKinney-Vento Liaison

Brief Biography

Catherine Knowles has served as the Director of The HERO Program for Families in Transition of Metro Nashville Public Schools in Nashville, Tennessee for twenty-six years. During that time the program has grown from serving 200 students a year to more than 4,500. Catherine is known as a leader and advocate not only in Nashville, but also throughout the state of Tennessee and nationally. Catherine was recognized in 2019 as The Homeless Liaison of the Year by the National Association for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth. She currently serves on three state-wide councils under appointments from the Governor as a service provider representing the concerns of families who are experiencing homelessness. Catherine received her Master of Science in Social Work from the University of Tennessee and serves as an internship supervisor for both graduate and undergraduate students in the Nashville area.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

As a Nashville native and former Homelessness Planning Council member, I understand that there is urgent work to be done in our city. I have dedicated my professional career to supporting students and families experiencing homelessness and I recognize there is still so much work to be done--as an individual, a neighbor, and an organization, but more importantly at a systems and community to ensure we build a strong systems of support out of homelessness for everyone in our community. I want to serve in order to elevate the needs and concerns of students and families who are experiencing homelessness and to collaborate with others on programming and services that really will make a difference.

Tell us about your experience working to address homelessness and/or support people experiencing homelessness.

For the past 26 years, I have served students and families experiencing homelessness in Metro Schools. I have grown the program from a one-room portable building in a parking lot to an entire wing of a former elementary school. We converted the library into a clothing store and established a food pantry stocked with microwaveable and other ready to eat foods built from a list of what our students and families said they wanted to eat. I value my conversations and direct interactions with the families and students above all else as they are the experts who have taught me the most.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

As a social worker and Nashville native, I think the greatest contribution I bring to the work is my focus on educating the community about the issue of homelessness in order to bring new partners in to work on supports and solutions. We have more than 75 partners for our work at The HERO Program and I truly believe that if we talk openly and honestly about homelessness in our community then we can rally the financial support and resources that our unhoused neighbors need.

H.G. Stovall

Nashville Launch Pad (Executive Director)

Shelter Weather Outreach and Prevention Committee (Member)

Connection UMC, Trustee Building Chair

Brief Biography

Stovall is near-native of Nashville and middle Tennessee and an accomplished non-profit leader based in Nashville, TN, with over 20 years of experience in hospitality, healthcare, higher-ed, non-profit, and sectors blending these fields.

His expertise spans executive leadership, strategic planning, fundraising, and program expansion. Equality and equity are his life's mission while his greatest joys are his family, his dogs, limited time outdoors and more time than reasonable in antique stores and enjoying southern food. Stovall is founding board chair of Connection United Methodist Church in Donelson and holds a Bachelor of Science in Political Science from Middle Tennessee State University.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

If I am to be selected, it will be my joy and my aim to provide a voice of practical wisdom and to passionately advocate for all our unhoused neighbors with a particular understanding of the unique challenges faced by young adults and those in the LGBTQIA+ community.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

Can you commit to joining at least one Continuum of Care Committee? Yes

Tell us about your experience working to address homelessness and/or support people experiencing homelessness.

I am known as a visionary non-profit leader with over 20 years of experience, demonstrating a strong commitment to combating youth homelessness in the Nashville area. My leadership is characterized by a passion for equity, innovation, lifting under-served voices, and empowering marginalized youth.

In my role as Executive Director at Nashville Launch Pad, I have demonstrated exceptional leadership by with the support of the board and our funders, transforming the organization and significantly expanding its services to address a critical community need. Upon joining Nashville Launch Pad, I reorganized operations to preserve services and create a pathway for financial recovery. I expanded the reach of Nashville Launch Pad, increasing bed capacity from 6 to 43 and growing the staff from 2 to 20. This demonstrates a direct effort to provide more resources to homeless youth.

My leadership also stabilized the organization's finances through fundraising, increasing the cash flow position significantly. Securing grant funding from Metro Nashville to provide 24/7 staffed transitional housing showcases my ability to address a critical community need and secure vital resources. Furthermore, my efforts to represent the agency in the Youth Homelessness Demonstration Program (YHDP) application for the City of Nashville, included the reinstatement of the Youth Advisory Board (YAB), highlighting my commitment to systemic change and incorporating the voices of those directly affected.

Beyond direct service provision, I have cultivated strong relationships with community leaders, clients service providers and governmental agencies alike, promoting trust and increasing service quality and scope. This collaborative leadership style ensures the organization's sustainability and effectiveness in the long term.

Overall, my career reflects a dedicated leader who not only manages organizations but also drives significant positive change, most recently in addressing youth homelessness through strategic growth, operational excellence, and a deep commitment to those in need.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

Strategic Leadership: With over 20 years of experience in non-profit leadership, I can provide strategic direction to organizations focused on combating homelessness. This includes developing and implementing effective programs, ensuring operational efficiency, and driving organizational growth.

Leading with Authenticity, Common Sense, and Grace: Known for a pragmatic mindset, I am (generally) a kind but direct truth-teller who places a high value on holding partners accountable. This commitment to responsibility is paired with an unwavering focus on the missional needs and priorities of individuals and families experiencing homelessness, driving all actions and decisions.

Collaboration and Community Engagement: I have experience in building trust strong relationships with boards/committees/team, community stakeholders, and government entities. This collaborative approach is essential for coordinating efforts and creating comprehensive solutions to homelessness.

Advocacy: My involvement in community leadership roles, such as work with Tennessee Equality Project and Urban Housing Solutions Community Council, demonstrates a commitment to advocacy and addressing social issues. This experience can be leveraged to raise awareness, promote policy changes, and advocate for the rights of the homeless population.

Mary Parrish Center (Housing Navigator)

Dream Streets (Transitional Housing Floor Manager)

Brief Biography

I began my career in social services as an Outreach Worker at The Salvation Army, where I provided meals, assisted clients in obtaining essential documents, and connected them with vital resources to support their success and integration into the community. My dedication to serving others, driven by a deep sense of purpose and calling, led to my promotion to Case Manager, and eventually to Lead Case Manager. In this role, I worked extensively with the unhoused population and actively contributed as a member of the Community Advisory Board (CAB).

Seeking to expand my impact, I transitioned to Dream Streets Transitional Housing, where I served as Floor Manager and provided case management support. Motivated by a strong desire to grow professionally and continue serving vulnerable populations, I accepted a position as a Housing Navigator at the Mary Parrish Center. In this role, I assist individuals who have experienced interpersonal and domestic violence in securing safe, stable housing and rebuilding their lives.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

I am interested in serving on the Homelessness Planning Council to contribute both my lived experience and my broader perspective on the needs of individuals, the community, and the city as a whole.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

Can you commit to joining at least one Continuum of Care Committee? Yes

Mary (Dede) Byrd

Brief Biography

I was born, raised, and educated in Davidson County. I earned my Bachelor's of Science in nursing at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. I completed my Certificate of Anesthesia at Middle Tennessee School of Anesthesia and worked at Centennial Medical Center for over 30 years. My interest in homelessness began at the beginning of COVID due to individuals dying at Brookmeade's encampment. I joined the Continuum of Care to educate myself on homelessness and the efforts surrounding this issue. I have attended thousands of hours of COC committee meetings, community meetings, council meetings, commission and board meetings in the attempt to move housing of those experiencing homelessness forward. Serving on the Homeless Planning Council would be an honor and an opportunity to learn and contribute on another level.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

Serving would allow me to bring the homeless communities needs to other entities. A position on the council opens doors that would otherwise be more difficult to enter. I would promote a culture of hope that would involve services and push for a safe place to do the work.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

Can you commit to joining at least one Continuum of Care Committee? Yes

Tell us about your experience working to address homelessness and/or support people experiencing homelessness.

My involvement with Brookmeade's encampment exposed me to the layers of services needed. Housing in a safe place was my number one priority, for the camper and the outreach worker. The individuals in the encampment are as different as the services they need. It was the sense of hopelessness that motivated me. The answer was not cookie cutter simple. It was as diverse, repetitive, and unique as each person. It is complicated, but if we work as a community, it is achievable.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

I would start by pushing at the state and local level for more beds, not just housing. Some of the most vulnerable have specific needs that must be triaged, addressed, and treated. We need facilities that meet these needs.

Mick Nelson

Nelson Community Partners

Managing Principal

Brief Biography

Mick is the Managing Principal of Nelson Community Partners (NCP), which has a singular focus on partnering to create the most meaningful affordable housing and community development projects in Tennessee. He earned his doctorate from Vanderbilt University, where he focused on affordable housing policy, real estate analysis, and urban development patterns. While there, he joined community advocates in working towards establishing the Barnes Fund for Affordable Housing in Nashville.

Mick specializes in complex affordable housing transactions, with a particular focus on mixed-income housing, permanent supportive housing (PSH) and public-private partnerships. He previously worked for the Tennessee Housing Development Agency where he oversaw major asset management, strategic planning, and research projects. He sometimes teaches courses in Community Development at Vanderbilt University and was honored to co-chair the Mayor's Affordable Housing Task Force.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

I am a strong believer in a Housing First approach to addressing homelessness, and would love to be a part of the city's response to helping end homelessness here in our city. I hope my experience developing over 100 units of PSH housing would be helpful to the Council.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

We were the co-developers, with Volunteer Ministry Center, of Caswell Manor in Knoxville, which created 48 units of permanent supportive housing in Knoxville and was completed in 2022. We also were the codevelopers of Callahan Flats, with Knoxville Leadership Foundation, which includes 58 units of permanent supportive housing and will be complete this summer. Our firm also has 2 projects underway to help create another 40 units of permanent supportive housing here in Nashville, and is working on another significant PSH project with the City of Chattanooga.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

I hope my real estate development and policy experience will be helpful in ending homelessness.

Do you have lived experience of homelessness (past or present)? No

Please disclose any potential conflicts of interests.

While I am not aware of any direct conflicts of interest at this time, from time to time our firm partners with other organizations that work on ending homelessness and will disclose and recuse myself from any matters as required by the conflict of interest policy.

The Beat (Co-Director)

The Contributor (Housing Stability Guide)

Brief Biography

I came to Nashville from Houston, TX in 2009 to attend Belmont University - spending about 8 years in the music industry after graduation. I gained experience in almost every area of administration and legal with an expertise in data management. In searching for my own sense of direction, I found Forest Therapy and completed training to be a certified Forest Therapy Guide in 2022. Having this new lens with which to look at the world, I felt that my career at the time did not align with what I want out of life so I left it, got an interim job as a barista, and stumbled into helping homeless people (see more under Experience).

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

I am dedicated to my community. I began this work because I saw individuals being utterly overlooked and I gave what I could - which at first was only water and kindness - and it grew into me knowing most of the community by name. I believe that I can be a fair advocate in communicating the needs of the people. My own brain excels at puzzling through complex systems and enjoys increasing efficiencies. I strive to be nonjudgemental, fair, and compassionate.

Over three years ago I began engaging with the Madison homeless community by chance when I took a job as a barista right of Gallatin Pike. Within a year, this expanded into street outreach with The Beat alongside what I could do from my position at the coffee shop. In 2024, I piloted a "lemonade stand" as an outreach effort at a downtown Madison camp that ran throughout the whole warm season and helped us act as trusted mediators when the camp had to close. Over the winter, I hosted a warming shelter through The Beat for 70 of the coldest days. We served hot food every evening and negotiated a shuttle from our shelter to the Overnight Shelter each night that it was open. We transitioned this into a Saturday Dinner that has run every single week since the warming shelter closed. In April of 2025 I began working with The Contributor as a Housing Stability Guide. In 2024, I worked with the necessary governmental departments to ensure that the path to obtaining an ID as an unhoused person was clearly explained online and that the Homeless or Shelter Resident Affidavit was available for download (as it was not previously). In March of this year, I testified alongside Lindsey Krinks of Open Table against HB0197 at the House Transportation Committee.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

I want to keep helping people! I've already seen how fostering community within a specific neighborhood ripples out into positives for the individuals and I have truly grown to love the people we serve. My dream is to open a dedicated community space within downtown Madison and The Beat's Saturday Dinner is our effort in working up to that dream.

Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services

Office of Wellness and Employment, Assistant Director

Brief Biography

I spent 8 years working in community mental health in Nashville, TN, 5 of these years were spent exclusively with individuals experiencing homelessness as well as a behavioral health disorder. I worked with the Supportive Services for Veteran Families working with HMIS, outreach, as well as Coordinated Entry. I then started the Keys to Recovery program, a SAMHSA GBHI grant, working with individuals with substance use disorders and experience issues with housing. During these years I was on the Veteran Committee and served as the Vice Chair of the HMIS Committee while working to move Davidson County in the direction of an open system, allowing for HMIS data sharing. I took over as Chair of the HMIS committee and left this position when I joined the Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services. I have been a member of the PEC since December 2021. I currently am the Assistant Director of the Office of Wellness and Employment for the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services, where I have worked with the Office of Homeless Services (OHS) to establish an Individual Placement and Support (IPS) Supported Employment team to provide supported employment in Davidson County.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

Though I do not work directly with individuals experiencing homelessness anymore, I continue to advocate for this community. I joined the PEC to continue to work with this community and work to make a more effective system that moves individuals through quickly but also prioritizing their choice. I want to continue to reduce barriers and make sure everyone has access to the resources they need.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

I worked with the Supportive Services for Veteran Families (SSVF) program, served on the Veterans Committee, was Vice Chair/Chair of the HMIS committee where we worked towards an open HMIS system to allow for data sharing, served as the agency representative for Centerstone (as the voting member) for all General CoC meetings. have served on the PEC since December 2021, and participated in the annual Point in Time count for three years. In my current role I advocate for supported employment programs as well as self-management/wellness workshops being integrated into programs working with individuals experiencing homelessness.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

I could use my past experience working directly with individuals experiencing homelessness as well as experience working within the CoC to help build infrastructure and capacity of the system in Davidson County. My direct service experience helps me understand what is actually needed in the community and not just what sounds good. I also can take things that I learn working with this group to take back to my department to help influence changes and programs on that level. My experience serving on the Veteran Committee, HMIS Committee, and time on the PEC will also help me continue to push Davidson County forward.

Greater Nashville Realtors

Realtor

Brief Biography

As a native of Nashville, I love this city and the people who live here. I know the value of real estate financially and I know the value of safe and affordable housing. I had an amazing childhood growing up in the Inglewood neighborhood of Nashville, attended high school at Father Ryan and earned my Bachelor's degree from Middle Tennessee State University, but throughout my life I've sought out ways to serve those in need and to give voice to those who may not otherwise be heard.

For the majority of the past 22 years, I have sought to serve the residents of Nashville and the Middle Tennessee area by helping them achieve their home ownership goals. This includes helping them buy and sell homes, being a leader in a real estate company to empower others to serve the residents of Middle Tennessee, and helping to keep over 8,000 Tennessee families in their homes when they were facing foreclosure while I was leading the State of Tennessee's Foreclosure Prevention efforts.

For the last two years, I have served as the Grants Coordinator for the Metro Nashville Office of Homeless Services, I learned so much about the amazing work done in our Continuum of Care, but I've also learned that there is still a lot of work to do. When I was young, I would roam the woods along the Cumberland River where I would see the campsites and wonder who had lived there. It wasn't until later in life that I began to understand that not everyone is afforded the same basic opportunities. All of this gives me an invaluable perspective and a deep understanding of housing and the challenges and inequity that exists for so many.

Why do you want to serve on the Homelessness Planning Council?

I believe that I can bring a unique voice to the HPC. My expertise in the real estate and housing industry, my time with the Office of Homeless Services and my lifetime as a Middle Tennessee resident afford me a wide and strong perspective that will balance the many facets of the effort to end homelessness in Nashville. I can see that the needle is moving in the right direction and I know the paradigm of hopelessness is shifting, and I want to help this momentum continue.

Can you commit to attending at least 75% of meetings within a year? Yes

Can you commit to joining at least one Continuum of Care Committee? Yes

Tell us about your experience working to address homelessness and/or support people experiencing homelessness.

As the Grants Coordinator for OHS, I was able to learn about a wide variety of efforts and services throughout the Nashville homelessness services community. Whether it was the Continuum of Care funded programs, the Metro funded programs or the programs funded by the American Rescue Plan Act, I was given a window into the beautiful work being done by the community service providers. Understanding the sources of funding as well as the many complex processes surrounding the funding is vital as the funding environment continues to change and shift towards a faith based and philanthropic model. I also served as the Metro Council liaison, interacting with the Public Health and Safety Committee on a regular basis and gaining an understanding of the legislative process. While funding was the central component of my role, my favorite part was building the relationships with the service community members. I hope to continue to build those relationships going forward.

How could you help contribute toward ending homelessness in our community?

I was once told that I have the heart of a social worker, which I think is an enormous compliment. I was raised by parents who loved their neighbors and cared for anyone who needed. The experience and expertise I've mentioned in this application give me tools, skills and knowledge, but for me, the most important I can bring to the HPC is the same thing I bring to every real estate transaction and that is honesty, integrity and the desire to better the lives of those I serve.

From April 17th, 2023 to April 30th, 2025, I served as the Grants Coordinator for the Metro Nashville Office of Homeless Services. I don't believe that creates any conflicts of interest, but rather enhances my ability to be effective as a member of the HPC. I did, however, want to disclose this.
