

Dear Councilmember,

10/5/2026

Chief John Drake is pleased to provide you with a quarterly report of MNPD community engagements that have taken place in Davidson County.

This report provides a listing of community events and activities that the police were involved in or participated in during Quarter 3, 2026, within the area of the metropolitan government, broken down by police sector. Such events or activities include, but are not limited to, neighborhood meetings, charitable activities, and school programs. Please note: this is a record of activities and events entered into the reporting system during Quarter 3, 2026, and may include meetings that took place during the previous quarter.

For additional details about a specific engagement described in this report, please contact the Community Affairs Sergeant at the appropriate precinct. For your convenience, contact information for each precinct is listed below.

Respectfully,

Deputy Chief Chris Gilder
Executive Services Bureau

Assistant Chief Mike Hagar
Executive Services, Administrative Services, and Support Services Bureaus

Participants were taught the Avoid, Deny, and Defend response strategies and provided information on how to respond during an active threat situation. The training also covered practical ways employees can help protect themselves and their coworkers during an emergency.  Additionally, we discussed ways employees can work with Metro Nashville Police Officers during an emergency, including providing important information to responding officers, following instructions, maintaining situational awareness, and taking steps to help ensure their workplace remains as safe as possible. |

It is an opportunity to build confidence, strengthen character, develop healthy habits, and discover what is possible through consistent effort. MISSION To strengthen relationships between youth, law enforcement, and the community through athletics, mentorship, education, and positive engagement. VISION To inspire every participant to become a confident athlete, respectful teammate, responsible citizen, and positive leader.  Saturday, the PAL fall running clinic kids ran in the Steps of Success 5k in downtown Nashville. We had a booth set up as well to share information to the community about our program.                                                                                                                                             |

Parents in the neighborhood preregistered their kids online at both community centers. PAL then brought 20-inch boys and girls bikes to the centers. PAL set up a small bike track to teach the kids how to ride their new bikes. The kids also received a bike helmet for riding and a bike lock to secure their bikes when not riding. This event was a huge success in both communities by forming a bond with kids and parents.                                              |

Parents in the neighborhood preregistered their kids online at both community centers. PAL then brought 20-inch boys and girls bikes to the centers. PAL set up a small bike track to teach the kids how to ride their new bikes. The kids also received a bike helmet for riding and a bike lock to secure their bikes when not riding. This event was a huge success in both communities by forming a bond with kids and parents. |

For 3 consecutive Monday nights East, North, and Midtown Precincts each had their own movie night where PAL cooked hotdogs and popcorn for the families that attended. Each Precinct had a different Disney movie playing that week for the families to watch. I provided wooden toucan models for 25 kids who are interested in becoming future police officers. During the workshop, we built and painted the toucans while having casual conversations about my journey to becoming a police officer. This activity not only allowed us to chat but also challenged the kids to read instructions, learn how to use tools, follow guidelines, and work together as a team, just as we do on the job in the field. |

As an interactive training, FIP staff was impressed with the questions members brought forward—what clients could expect, cultural facets of DV, what they need to do when their client has experienced trauma, the differences when a client is over or under the age of 18, and how the law can make a victim feel safe. New to this facilitated conversation was an intentional focus of how our beliefs about clients may affect services—specifically exploring some of the community pressures that may be present for these workers (e.g. I shouldn't meddle; this is family issue... all he did was [push her]... For 3 consecutive Monday nights East, North, and Midtown Precincts each had their own movie night where PAL cooked hotdogs and popcorn for the families that attended. Each Precinct had a different Disney movie playing that week for the families to watch. PAL was trying to reach kids and families and introduce PAL to them along with some of the local officers.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

More than 40 Japanese community members attended the training. During the presentation, I used a PowerPoint presentation and facilitated discussion questions focused on the Avoid, Deny, Defend (ADD) response strategy. The participants were engaged throughout the training and asked numerous questions, which allowed for meaningful discussion and interaction. This training provided an opportunity to educate members of the Japanese community on personal safety and preparedness while also strengthening communication, trust, and positive relationships between the Metro Nashville Police Department and the Japanese community. As the Asian community liaison, this is an important part of my efforts to build partnerships and strengthen community engagement. |

Key Approach: Active listening, building trust, and modeling positive behaviors. Primary Impact: Boosting self-esteem, improving academic focus, and teaching life skills. Success Metric: Seeing the youth gain confidence and make independent, positive choices. Back-to-School Giveaway Core Goal: To equip students with essential tools for academic success. Key Approach: Partnering with communities to distribute backpacks and school supplies. Primary Impact: Relieving financial stress for families and promoting educational equity. Success Metric: Ensuring every child starts the school year feeling prepared and confident. Did a barbershop talk to young kids in a large barbershop where they could ask questions and take advice from adults and kids in school. Asking questions to the people on the panel on handling student problems with school and life. It was great been on the panel as they were |
